

Francesca Sibella was born in Bergamo in 1968, where she attended Liceo Scientifico Lussana.

She moved to Milan to attend Bocconi University where she graduated in 1991, with 110 Laude in Business, specializing in Corporate Finance. As soon as she graduated, she joined the investment bank Jp Morgan where she worked until 2002 in the Global Market area, dealing as Vice-President of rates, foreign exchange and options with institutional clients, banks, insurance companies, large Italian and foreign corporates in the Global Derivatives (FX, Options, IRS) team. In the mid-90s she attended an internal master's degree in Global Finance & Business in New York.

At the birth of her third child and with the prospect of a move to London, she decided to privilege family commitments and changed job taking care of the co-management of a family business in the world of jewelry.

Since 2013 he has been following one of his passions, cooking, founding Food & Design, design and management of culinary courses.

Since 2017 he has been joined by this activity as Managing Director of TechCamp@POLIMI, a new challenge in a stimulating innovative project.