Silvia Strada received her Master in Systems and Control Engineering and the Ph.D. Degree in Automation and Information Technology from Politecnico di Milano, where she currently is a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Automatic Control. She is author of more than 60 research papers and about ten patents. She is member of the IEEE CSS and of its TC on Smart Cities, and member of the program committee of IEEE ICHMS 2021. Her main research interests include intelligent mechatronic systems, signal processing and data analytics and machine learning especially for the study of mobility patterns and the evaluation of sustainable mobility policies. She is academic technical leader of several research projects in cooperation with private companies.